Harlaxton College

Lecturer in British Studies (Part-time)
Fixed term post covering sabbatical leave: January–April 2019

Harlaxton College, the British Study Abroad Centre of the University of Evansville, Indiana, USA, wishes to appoint a part-time lecturer to contribute to the teaching of its interdisciplinary, team-taught, British Studies programme. The successful applicant will hold, or will have recently submitted, a PhD in either British history or British literature and have experience of teaching at undergraduate level.

The Course: BRIT 282/382/382H: The British Experience from The Celts to the Present Day. This course is required of all students and is an interdisciplinary introduction to the broad cultural and historical developments within British society from the earliest times to the present.

Course Components and Student Assessment: BRIT 282 is the standard model for British Studies consisting of 28 lectures and seminars and three course-related field trips. The successful applicant will be expected to deliver 28 seminars, a minimum of 5 lectures, participate in the field-trips and grade the assessed components of the course – term paper, three exams, individual presentation and quizzes. One additional evening seminar and assessed paper will be required to fulfil the BRIT 382 component. The successful candidate will also be expected to supervise and assess projects written by students taking BRIT 382 Honours.

This position is a fixed-term post covering sabbatical leave from 1 January to 30 April 2019. The Salary will be in the range £5,600 - £6,000.

For further information please go to the Faculty web page at:
https://harlaxton.evansville.edu/accepted/british-studies.cfm

To apply: Please send a C.V. and a letter of application, marked for the attention of Dr Gerald Seaman, Principal, and Dr Edward Bujak, Chair, Department of British Studies, by email to ahollick@harlaxton.ac.uk